KILL ANY MEMORIAL TO CONGRESS

Direct Vote Of United States Senators By The People Not Approved Of By Members Evidenced By Their Vote.

SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.
Madison, June 5.—That the members of the legislature will not end their labors with the adjournment this week is now an assured fact for at least seven committees for special work have already been named and it is possible that others will be selected before the final adjournment comes.

Subjects Discussed.
The income tax, the good roads problem, education, the senatorial primary of last year and the election of United States senator by the legislature, the state departments, industrial insurance and the guarantee of bank deposits are among those already selected for investigation.

Man Arrested Last Winter Charged With Irregularities Was Not Guilty.

IN ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Jackson, Mich., June 5.—Henry P. Fogelson, formerly cashier of the failed Springport, Mich., bank, who was arrested last December, charged with making false entries in his books and incorrect reports to the banking commission, was today discharged by order of the prosecuting attorney. The investigations by the authorities found that Fogelson did not profit personally by his transactions, but was unfortunate in making bad loans of the bank funds.

GIRL SENTENCED TO INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL

Grace Burt, Fifteen Years Old, Had Bad Reputation—Call Extended to Prof. Bladell.

SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.
Beloit, Wis., June 7.—For being out late at night, keeping back her wages from her parents, and in general manifesting those tendencies that make for a small character, Grace Burt, fifteen years old, was today sentenced by Judge Rosa to the Industrial School for girls at Milwaukee until she becomes twenty-one years old. Her parents have been unable to manage her for some time and in consequence she has become a well-known character on the streets.

Rev. James A. Bladell, pastor of the Second Congregational Church, professor of Biblical literature and history at Beloit College, and librarian of the College, was yesterday extended a call by the Second Congregational Church to become pastor of the church in exclusion to all other duties. Prof. Bladell will for some time have been associated with Rev. E. L. Ralph, who resigned June 1. As yet he has not decided whether or not he will accept the call.

St. Louis, June 7.—The balloon "St. Louis," landed at Kelson, Tenn., according to private messages received here today.

BOWERS INTERPRETS
THE TERM "WHISKEY"

Solicitor General Says Adding Coloring Matter to What Is Not Whiskey Can Make Drink.

DETROIT ANNOUNCED.
Washington, June 7.—Solicitor General Bowers has submitted to President McKinley his opinion as to what the term "Whiskey" means in law.

In effect Bowers holds, after discussing at great length what the term "Whiskey" meant at the time of the passage of the pure food law, that the public does not consider that adding coloring or flavoring matter can make whiskey out of what otherwise is not whiskey. Whiskey is regarded generally as naturally having flavor and properties of its own.

SOUTHERN VETS
INVADE MEMPHIS

GREAT CONFEDERATE REUNION
BEGINS TOMORROW.

MEN WHO PARTICIPATED

In Principal Battles of Civil War Will Be Spoken—Lee Monument Unveiled Friday.

DETROIT ANNOUNCED.

Memphis, Tenn., June 7.—The great Confederate reunion will begin here tomorrow and continue through Thursday, culminating a day later with the unveiling of the Stephen Lee monument.

Outward and visible signs that a great gathering is at hand are abundant in Memphis today. Buildings everywhere are decorated with flags and bunting and the streets and other public places are alive with Confederate veterans, sons of Confederate veterans, daughters of the Confederacy, members of memorial associations and other visitors from every nook and corner of the south.

The general committee has prepared for 35,000 visitors and it is believed fully this number will be on hand. The rush began in earnest today, and all trains coming this way are crowded with visitors. From Arkansas, Alabama, Texas, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, the Carolinas, Oklahoma and other states, delegations are pouring in. Already many of the scores of speakers and minds of the reunion will be notable.

The veterans are much more feeble than when they were here eight years ago. The number has been thinned by death and age has dimmed their eyes, bent their forms and given a snowy appearance to the beards and hair.

Memphis is extending a hearty welcome to the veterans, their sons and daughters and eighteens. Everywhere are flags and bunting. The Confederate colors predominate, but the national colors are everywhere interwoven with the emblems of "the storm-cradled nation that fell." One of the most conspicuous features of the decorations is a mammoth Confederate flag made from electric lights and hung across Main street at the intersection of Madison and Main street; from Poplar to Linden, has been converted into a court of honor, with strings of electric lights on each side and handsome arches at some of the most prominent intersections.

The decorations are tasteful as well as elaborate. Few people have refused to heed the request of the committee in charge to add a bit of color in honor of the occasion. The Bijou Theater, where the general sessions of the reunion are to be held, the Forrest monument in Forrest Park, the Auditorium, where the grand balloon hall takes place, and the Tri-State Fair buildings and grounds, where several of the features of outdoor entertainment will be held, have all been elaborately decorated.

The reunion will be called to order promptly at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning by Major Gen. J. H. McDowell. The remainder of the program for the initial session is as follows: Address of welcome by Major McDowell; address of welcome by Major Malone, in behalf of the City of Memphis; address of welcome by George W. Gordon, in behalf of the executive committee and Memphis veterans; response by Gen. Clement A. Evans, commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans.

At 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, the veterans will reassemble in the convention hall to listen to the annual oration, which will be delivered by Gen. Theodore S. Garrett of Norfolk, Va. Another feature of the afternoon will be the grand floral parade.

Naturally the reunion will be the occasion for numerous smaller reunions. The largest will be that of the Sons of Veterans which will continue for three days. Other affairs will be the meetings of the Southern Memorial association, the Association of Medical Officers of the Army and Navy of the Confederacy, the United Confederate Chorus of America, the Confederate Naval Veterans, the Forrest cavalry, the Wheeler corps and numerous other bodies.

The floral parade tomorrow and the general parade on Thursday are to be most elaborate, while the route of march will be shorter, for obvious reasons, than usual, every feature that will tend to the reality of the occasion will be employed, and every provision that suggests itself for the comfort of the veterans will be given consideration.

The reunion of the Sons of Confederate Veterans promises to be of more than ordinary interest and importance. The sons propose to make a complete revision of their by-laws, with a view to the betterment and upbuilding of their organization. For this reason it is expected that the attendance will be unusually large. The general arrangements for the reunion of the organization have been perfected by Adj.-Gen. Nathan Bedford Forrest, grandson of the famous cavalry leader.

BOOM STARTS BY SIMPLY A RUMOR

WILL WATT TELLS OF HOW A LAND RUSH BEGINS IN THE WEST.

STORY GRAPHICALLY TOLD

Writes From Actual Experience In the Nevada Mining Country Districts.

W. W. Watt gives the readers of the Gazette a most graphic picture of what a land rush to a new mining country in the west really is. His letter is as follows:

Editor Gazette:

Have you ever joined in the mad rush of a mining excitement in the desert?

If you haven't you have missed something really worth while, especially if the objective point happens to "make good" and becomes a thriving and productive camp.

There are many men in Nevada who follow the boom from one camp to another. One will see not the same men of the same faces—the same men chasing wildly after the goddess of gold, no matter where she leads. Some win; others do not. But whether they win or lose, these men are boom-chasers just the same. The same spirit that prompts the disappointed prospector or spectator to rush into a new field prompts the lucky man in his wild endeavor for more of the "mazuma." It is the game of the desert.

The latest boom in this section is now at Hawthorn, which is a thriving camp near this city of Reno. The Tonopah rush was the beginning of the new era in the Sagebrush state and since that time history has repeated itself with rapid fire movements. The story of this latest rush on to Hawthorn is pretty much the same old tale. Men simply packed hasty and hurried to the scene in every case.

They went on foot with their beds, canteens and their grub boxes, strapping upon their stooping shoulders, braving the hot rays of the summer sun as it poured its scorching, dazzling light upon the never-ending wastes, and over long, hot, dusty trails they plodded on, hoping to be there on time to get in right, some falling by the wayside; never to rise again, others hiking on to fame and fortune. Some went with pack trains of burros, winding slowly across the hills and plains, with only an occasional "hee-haw" to break the monotony of the dreary trip. Some, more fortunate than others, hired teams and wagons and drove hard to beat the footmen and the burro puncher to the scene.

Those more fortunate went in automobiles, the swift-winged birds of the desert, blazing trails across the sands over, which even wagons had never passed, hurrying with the mighty powers of gasoline and electricity, behind them to outdo all competitors in the mad rush. And it is timely to say that some of those who started first, arrived last, and that sometimes the man on foot arrived ahead of the "city guy" in the auto; that sometimes the burro puncher rounded into the camp ahead of the man with the wagon.

Automobilia have a habit of stalling out here in the desert the same as they have in Rock county; driving horses do not thrive well on saltations when crossing the hot sands; but the tried and true prospector, on foot, or with the faithful burro, is pretty likely to come through, although all others may fall exhausted by the wayside.

This latest rush into Hawthorn is typical of the other Nevada excitements. When two or three men had come to the conclusion that something was about to happen, the boom was on. It required only a starter. Then the trail became hot on all sides. And what a procession!

Men on foot, burros, mule teams, freighters, light rigs, saddle outfit, automobiles, horses on wheels, all coming down the line kicking up a dust a hundred miles in length. Hundreds of yards of white canvas were spread in a day and the new city was founded as if by magic.

A visitor, abounding himself for a day, hardly recognized the town he had left the day before. Men scrambled to buy or lease the most favorable locations in both the mining and business section of the camp. The price cut no figure. The grocer, the baker, the banker, the doctor, the druggist, the lawyer, the gambler with all, no record, hung out their signs, and within ten days every line of business was represented and a full-fledged city was in full swing.

Cot beds were in demand at two dollars a night and with twenty cots in a single tent that graft alone was worth while. I met a young attorney from Omaha who had four of these tents in operation which were good for eighty lodgers which resulted in an income of $160 each night. And how I would like to have had the Hotel Myers structure on the very spot for a six month's term. That proposition would have looked better to me than a real gold mine.

The lunch counters did a business that would have even rattled Con McDonald. The crowd just pushed each other aside in its wild endeavor to pay two bits each for a ham or egg sandwich. Even the bootblowers were subject to a strong solution of corn-jelly. In their tea and coffee, for all the water used was hauled in whiskey barrels which had only recently been emptied of their original contents. Many persons were obliged to sleep upon the ground.

And it was during just this kind of a situation where Al Wheeler, formerly of Janesville, received his start in this country which later resulted in his building a fortune in the mining business. Upon his arrival in one of these boom camps Wheeler at once set to work and soon had a corner on all the sleeping cots in the place. In place of starting a lodging house of his own Wheeler sold the cots out at prices for which the Janesville dealers got for solid brass beds.

Then Wheeler placed this money into mining property which went out of sight in price in a single night. From that time on he had easy sailing and today Al Wheeler's name is a fa-

SOCIAL AFFAIRS OF COMMENCEMENT WEEK

Senior Class Give Banquet and Are Guests of Pleasant Gatherings.

[Contributed to the Gazette.]

Elkhorn, Wis., June 7.—The coming week in the high school will be a busy one for the seniors. Besides the commencement exercises which will take a considerable portion of their time, there are a number of social gatherings in their honor which they will attend. This evening they will be hosts and hostesses to the faculty, entertaining them at a 6:30 dinner at Josephson's on Rock River.

Friday evening the junior class entertained the seniors and the faculty at a 6:30 dinner given in the parlors of the Congregational church. The event was a most happy affair and was thoroughly enjoyed by all. Following the banquet an excellent program of bright and witty toasts was given. The menu consisted of:

Meat Loaf, Cream Potatoes, Rolls, Fruit Salad, Rosette Wafers, Coffee, Brisket Ice Cream, Devil's Food Cake, Nabisco Pickles, Olives, Nuts.

The program was as follows: Welcome—William Henry Morrissey, president of junior class; Response—Ronald McIntosh, president of senior class; Original Poem—"Farewell to the Faculty"—Annie Arnett; Piano Solo—Kittie Hubble; The Seedling Corn—Lee Salisbury; The Budding Sprout—Jescha North; Violin Solo—Lucile Cutton; The Growing Stalk—Herschel North; The Ripening Fruit in the Ear—Miss Thornton; Piano Solo—Lorraine Post; Muses and Echo—Miss Bennett; Auto Lang Syne—Chorus.

Three Special Trains With Delegates En Route for Louisville Passed Through Janesville.

Three special trains, carrying delegates and visitors to the Imperial Council of the Mystic Shrine which opened at Louisville, Ky., this morning, passed through the city at various times yesterday and this morning. The first train, which went through at 3 a. m. Sunday morning, was from Duluth, the second, at 4 p. m., was from Whiting, Canada, while the third, at 12:35 this morning, was from St. Paul. The Sunday afternoon train, carrying the Canadian delegation, excited considerable interest on the part of those who saw it. The delegates had two bands of Scottish bagpipers on board and at every station, attired in their national costume of plaids and kilts, the musicians played up and down the platform playing national Scottish airs, and arousing the enthusiasm of those who were filled with the true Scottish spirit and other kinds of Scotch. A woman delegate from Alaska, with a broad hat band bearing that name, rode with the engineer on the train. The delegates traveled in fine style, their train of nine coaches being made up of day coaches and parlor, dining and Pullman cars.

Machinist Lawson received a bad cut under his right eye this morning while working at the bench and which necessitated the attendance of physician.

Henry Meyers is taking James Gardner's place for a short time.

Engineer Crowley and Fireman Walters double-headed Engine No. 4 on an extra north last night with engine 414.

Engineer J. W. Clark returned to work this morning. Storm, who has been retrieving him, is back again on the same run, while Dawson, who has been taking Storm's place is back on the board.

Will Dulin is following Switchman John Clough.

One of the high-powered patrol street cars got beyond control while turning down the Academy street hill Saturday night and rammed the gates at the street crossing, thereby doing much damage. The car was not burned.

Switchman Edward Bier took 130 Horn's place last night.

Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, R. R. Menlo is back on the switch engine today with Engineer James.

Conductor Richardson is laying off.

Switchman W. M. Peters is laying off today. J. E. Meadows is taking his place.

Conductor Gallagher had charge of 155 this morning.

Brakeman Lloyd and Barry went out on 71 this morning.

INDUSTRY AND MECHANICS

SOME FACTS ON RADIUM.

Demonstration Made of Only Specimens of Precious Element in City of Washington.

An interesting demonstration was made recently in Washington by Dr. A. K. P. Harvey, who exhibited the only specimens of radium that are owned in that city. They weigh only 12 milligrams and are worth about $1,200.

The most powerful of the three is bromide of radium, which has a radio-activity of 1,800,000. It is powerful enough to cure cancer or, to take a photograph through 12 inches of granite.

Dr. Harvey after exhibiting the specimens spoke on their properties. He said that radium had proved invaluable in the treatment of cancer and such skin diseases as lupus. He stated the history of radium in the few years that it has been known, saying that the credit of the original discovery belonged to the French scientist, Baccard. He had identified and described the element, but it was Mme. Curie and her husband who first succeeded in separating it in appreciable quantities from German pitchblende.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Wentworth attended the funeral of Colin MacLean in Janesville Friday.

C. G. Blederman is home from Port Huron, Michigan for a few days' visit with his family here.

Jeanie Flarity of Milwaukee spent Friday and Saturday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Flarity.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Fuller and Miss Charlotte Doolittle of Evansville were over-Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Hatch and Miss Florence Child.

Harry Pomroy of Gays Mills spent Sunday, with relatives here.

A merry party of young ladies consisting of Misses Sadie Nelson; Josephine Bates, Venona Thompson; Helen Coon, Louisa Joseph and Myrtle Mcpress spent Saturday and Sunday at Mrs. Flarity's cottage.

Mrs. H. B. Delong and Mrs. Lillian Childs Devereaux of Chicago are visiting Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Gottle and other relatives.

Penn Brown, Jr., of Janesville was an over-Sunday guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Bentley leave today for their summer home at Lake Koshkonong.

Paul Coon spent Saturday and Sunday in Madison.

A game of baseball was played between the Milton Crescent and the Elkhorn baseball nine yesterday at Athletic park. The score was 6 to 2 in favor of the home team.

The Methodist church was packed to its utmost capacity last evening for the inauguration sermon preached by the pastor, Rev. G. Kenneth MacInnis. His text was taken from first Kings, the third chapter and the ninth verse.

LIMA.

An Ancient One.

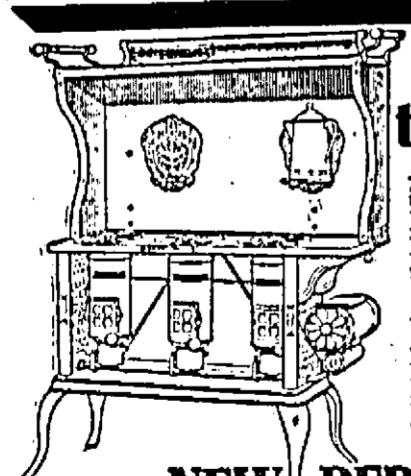

M. Hamelin, the police magistrate of Paris, was the victim of a venerable practical joke on April 1. It began in the early morning with the arrival at his residence in the Avenue Henri Martin of several carts of coal, followed by a continuous procession all day of other vehicles conveying similarly unordered goods—five pianos, jars of cod liver oil, baths, mineral waters, and vegetables—while among the visitors whose services were supposed to be required were an embalmer, a masseuse, an undertaker, and half a dozen pedicures. Altogether 222 vehicles drove up to the house in the course of the day. Amid the confusion M. Hamelin went quietly off to preside as usual at the police court—London Daily News.

Shipwreck a la Mode.

"Is there any danger, captain?" "Not a particle," answered the bluff old salt. "A moving picture outfit will soon be along and rescue us as soon as they have taken a few films."

The Chauffeur's Troubles. The instant discipline of the gospel of anti-fat are professional chauffeurs. "It's scant rations for me if I want to keep my job," said one driver. "Cock models and ballerina dancers are not more careful of their figures than we fellows will have to be if the owners of automobiles keep on getting squeamish about their tires. We've got to be lightweights, every one of us. This was when the man who wanted a chauffeur hired the chap who knew best how to manage a machine, no matter how much he weighed, but lately somebody has been giving the fat chauffeur a black eye by figuring out that his extra 50 pounds or so is a terrible wear and tear on the automobile. That has scared the owner. There's no use, he argues, in adding hard to an automobile's unavoidable hardships those that are avoidable, consequently only chauffeurs who are regular sylphs stand much of a show."

Erudition. The following gems of literature are bona fide examples of the erudition possessed by certain students who are taking this year's course of English at Harvard. An effort to write something about the word "Vulgate" in connection with the Bible resulted in the production of "In the fourteenth century lived Vulgate. He translated the Bible for Roman Catholics." Alithophel is a name not wholly unfamiliar to Biblical students, but perhaps this will give new information concerning him: "Alithophel was the first man after the flood to lead a holy existence, but after him and before the time of Christ there were a number of Christians ensconced in different places."—Christian Register.

Do You Read the Advertise- ments. It Pays

Here is the easiest way. Read the headlines of each ad you see. If it interests you, read the rest of the ad. If it doesn't, pass on to the next. It doesn't take much time. It's immensely interesting. It's the news of the stores. Many of our subscribers pay for the paper time and time again by taking advantage of advertised goods.

Inform yourself in regard to the best goods in the market by reading the ads. Goods or stores that stand persistent advertising for months and years, are standing the hardest of all tests. Shoddy merchandise and unfair merchants cannot stand this test for any great length of time. Advertising will make a success of a good proposition. It will burst a poor one.

WORSE AND MORE OF IT.

In their specialty of prostituting the interests of the people and the public welfare to their own selfish political ends the majority of the Wisconsin senators is at present surpassing all previous efforts.

After wasting the greater part of the session in making a political handball of the senatorial primary election this combination of three demagogues, one social democrat and thirteen social republicans is now railroading through bills at the rate of 100 daily.

Without question of their nature or merit, with but one object—the cleaning up of the calendar, this record-breaking number of measures, which demanded weeks of consideration, was acted on in a single day. If there was no opposition from the combination, the bill went through with a rush; if there was, it was killed with equal speed.

Back of this outrageous abuse of the sacred power of law-making, an abuse that may cost the citizens of the state litigation and dollars galore, lies a purely political motive. And that is the most sinister feature of this wholesale legislation. It has been politics first. The state's business is a secondary consideration.

At first we see them fathering the movement to postpone all critical legislation until a special session, on the specious plea that the present session would become excessive in length. Then, instead of getting down to business after the joint investigation was over, they suddenly forgot their desire for a short session and continued with a hearing of their own, to the large neglect of legitimate business. Now, when bills have piled up about them mountain high, they suddenly decide to drive the assembly into a corner by resolving on immediate adjournment and jamming through bills by the wholesale.

At every step, politics, politics, politics. Never a thought of the people's time, the people's money, the people's laws; but one thought—and that to create future political capital.

This criticism of the Wisconsin state senate is from the Milwaukee Free Press, and is significant because that body has been controlled by dunces of La Follette during the entire session. "Social Republic" is a new title, applied to the thirteen members who have been under dictation from Washington. Just what, the term means is not very clear.

The work of the senate is certainly open to criticism, and the closing farce should bring the blush of shame to any man of ordinary intelligence.

TWO CLERGYMEN

A young clergyman was one day discussing with an older pastor the secret of the successful administration of the latter, and could not understand the reason for it. "My son," said the venerable preacher, "it's like this: I notice that you always tell your congregation, 'You'll be damned if you don't.' I say to the faithful, 'You'll be blessed if you will.' This story, said T. Commerford Martin, chairman of the executive committee of the Museum of Safety and Sanitation, aptly illustrates the philosophy of our movement, to make American life and labor safer and healthier through this new application station in the conservation of human efficiency. To bring the matter home to him, portant centers of influence, we have detailed the director of the museum to spend six months in the field with an illustrated lecture describing the scope and object of the American movement and its significance to life, labor and the general public. The lecture will be free and will be delivered before Chambers of Commerce, Boards of Trade and other commercial bodies."

The lectures referred to are given by William H. Tolman in the interests of "safety." The lectures are free, and are not only entertaining but instructive, as they have to do with a question of vital importance to both capital and labor. Janesville would profit by securing the services of Mr. Tolman.

The Alaska-Yukon expedition opened on time June 1st and is now in full swing. From a modest start, planning to spend $100,000 for home exhibition, enthusiasm extended until the nation became interested and $10,000,000 found its way into the treasury, and $50,000,000 represents the value of exhibits. Seattle has worked out the scheme and brought it to a successful issue, and without government aid. All credit to the western city.

Senator Aldrich of Rhode Island is the most cleverly hated man in the senate because of his attitude on tariff revision. Yet the senator is the best posted man in the country on tariff schedules, and when the smoke clears away it may be discovered that he was acting for the best interests of the country at large.

The state board of control is legislated out of office and a new board to be appointed. The governor now has an opportunity to select a board in sympathy with him, but the chances are that the old members will be re-appointed. The will of the czar is still supreme.

Twenty-seven automobile speeders were arrested in the west side parks of Chicago yesterday afternoon, indicating that the speed mania is still at its height.

The great balloon race which started from Indianapolis last Saturday failed to make a remarkable record, or to demonstrate that aerial navigation is at all practical.

The assembly has decided to go into the investigating business, and the summer will be devoted to unearthing ancient history.

The Philadelphia strike was settled by the politicians. An election is soon to be held and votes are needed.

YOUR BACK YARD.

Do you remember or have you heard it—Dr. Conwell's lecture on "Acres of Diamonds?"

The story is thus:

A man of South Africa wandered for years over veldt and koppie in search of a diamond mine. Discouraged by his failure, he settled down in a house. One day, digging in his back yard, he came across a find which, being developed, resulted in the discovery of a rich mine of diamonds.

And the moral of the lecture, of course, is the possibilities of your limited resources. There are "acres of diamonds" in your back yard—not literally, but potentially.

Take a look at that back yard.

Have you made of it a dumping place, cluttered by rubbish and offensive to sight and smell? If so, the first thing to do is to clean it up.

Such a back yard is a liability which, if you will, you may change into an asset.

Learn from the Japanese. Those people when they come over here are amazed at the neglect of our premises. Their people, however small, may be their little holdings, cultivate every inch. The front yard blossoms as the rose, and the back yard produces half the living of the householder.

Properly handled your back yard will produce quantities of garden stuff scarcely believable. With a little labor and care all the delicacies of the garden may be had, fresh and appealing. And the return will pay double dividends in health and pleasure.

Do not waste your back yard.

Even a small place is worth your while. A few square feet will bring forth radishes and lettuce and other garden varieties sufficient to supply a small family.

Besides—

There is the possibility of beauty. Profuse blooms like sweet peas and varieties of climbing vines may be utilized in such a way as to hide ugly surroundings, transform your back yard into a bower of beauty and furnish bouquets for the dining table. A few cents' worth of seeds will do it.

We Americans are so accustomed to generous sized gardens that we have scarcely appreciated what may be done by intensive cultivation of small plots.

How indeed! Without big words how could many people say small things?—Smith.

NEW FIRE ESCAPE

Seat Is Lowered as Bucket Is Lowered Into Well.

Possibly the Iowa woman who was one of the joint inventors of the fire escape shown in the illustration once tried to slide down the old-fashioned and primitive slide, which was the only device then used for an improvement. However that may be, she and her co-inventor have devised an apparatus which is very simple and equally effective. This consists of a drum, which resembles a huge spool, and which is suspended from the window ledge, having a long straight edge for Different Kinds Can Be Kept Separate in Same Drawer.

There is no longer any excuse for having things tattered. So many little conveniences have been turned out to aid those who are systematic that even the carefree are becoming neat in spite of themselves. One of the most convenient of these devices is the lace cabinet designed by a Texan, a cabinet which is equally useful at home or in stores. This cabinet is provided with a series of bottomless drawers, the sides of which are not much more than half the height of the front. At intervals along these sides are slots adapted to receive the

In front of each spool is a wire guide, rising above it, and the ends of the laces are run over these guides and passed through slots in the front of the cabinet. In this way it is impossible for any one piece of lace to get mixed with the others and all that is needed to get the lace desired is to glance at the front of the cabinet, make your selection and insert as much as is wanted.

PREPARE FOR THE TURNERS.

Cincinnati Will Entertain 3,000 Gymnasts and 50,000 Visitors.

Cincinnati, June 7.—With the opening of the thirtieth festival of the North American Gymnastic Union (Turnerbund) still 12 days off, everything is in readiness for the reception of the 3,000 Turners and 50,000 visitors from all parts of the country, and nothing is being left undone.

Garry Herman, the president of the Cincinnati National League ball club, and the national baseball commission, is chairman of the committee, having the arrangements in charge, and with him are some of the most prominent citizens of the city.

THEFT SCANDAL ON WARSHIPS.

American Vessels Looted and Courts-Martial Will Follow.

Tokyo, June 7.—The departure of Rear Admiral Giles B. Harbor's squadron for Manila, scheduled for today, has been delayed owing to the discovery of thefts aboard the Galveston and Denver in which the names of two warrant officers and several seamen are involved.

Court-martial have been ordered. Brass and other engineer-room materials aggregating 2,000 pounds were taken from the ships on Decoration day and sold to the junk dealers in Yokohama. The value of the materials is estimated at $2,000 yen ($1,000).

New York, June 7.—American missionary workers have done more to make the Hindus loyal to the British government than all the soldiers and civilians in the service of the empire, is the opinion of Sir Alexander Simpson, late dean of the faculty of the medical college of the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, who delivered an address at the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian church yesterday.

CLEVELAND INDUSTRIAL EXPOSITION.

Cleveland, O., June 7.—Cleveland's industrial exposition, designed to display the diversity of the city's products, opened to-day. About 125,000 articles, it is estimated, come from the 3,500 shops in the city and a large percentage of these is exhibited in this interesting exposition. One building is devoted to machinery, hardware, paints, oils, builders' supplies, and such things, and another is given up to illumination, finely finished articles like furniture, clothing and leather, printed matter and specialties and novelties.

DEMURRER IN $1,000 DAMAGE ACTION HAS BEEN SUSTAINED

Court Also Authorized Today Another
Writ of Certiorari to Review
Council Proceedings.

"What is the exact status of the Walrath proceedings?" is fast becoming quite as grave and complicated a problem as "How old is Ann?" Judge Gilman today sustained City Attorney H. L. Macfield's demurrer to the complaint in the action brought by the laundry of the Union House to recover $1,000 damages from the Mayor and Common Council for injury alleged to have been done to her business by their threats of closing up her place, etc., and when the order based on this decision is entered, Attorney Cunningham threatens to take an appeal to the supreme court. The demurrer was argued last Friday and the court's decision is as follows:

"Circuit Court, Rock County, Margaret Walrath vs. The Mayor and Common Council of the city of Janesville.

"The demurrer to the complaint must be sustained primarily because the defendants are not a legal entity capable of suing or being sued. They are neither a natural nor an artificial person. 'Mayor' and 'Common Council' are titles merely. These titles are used to designate the chief executive officer and the governing body of members of the city. The city itself is not made a party; and if the persons filling the positions of mayor and common council are intended to be sued either in their individual or in their representative capacities, they must be named. The complaint nowhere furnishes the names of the mayor and councilmen. It asks for an injunction and for a judgment for damages against them. Against whom? Those constituting the 'council' at this time may be succeeded by others long before the case is tried. Shall their successors be charged with the payment of damages which they had not had in causing?

"There is no more authority in law for maintaining an action against a 'Mayor' and 'Common Council' of a city without naming the individuals than there is to sue 'The Deacons' of a church organization.

"Dated June 7th, 1900.

"GEORGE GRIMM,
"Circuit Judge.

"Leave to amend is granted on payment of $10 costs."

Certiorari Proceedings.

On application of Attorney Cunningham today the court authorized another writ of certiorari to bring up the records and proceedings of the common council in the latest and third attempt to revoke Mrs. Walrath's license. Mr. Cunningham alleges that the latest complaint against his client is wholly insufficient and that by reason of these alleged irregularities the council lost jurisdiction to make a valid order calling for the hearing which takes place tonight.

Suit Against Bondsmen.

In municipal court on Saturday the trial of the action brought by the City Attorney, at the instance of Mayor or City, to recover the $100 forfeit provided by law from Mrs. Walrath and her bondsmen was adjourned until June 17.

Latest design in flying machine, which literally climbs into the air.

(By Special Correspondent.)

San Francisco.—In recent months the conquest of the air has centered around the Wright brothers and their aeroplanes. There are many freak airships on the market which differ radically from the design of the Wright brothers' and one of these is the invention of E. J. Shearer of this city.

It is the result of several years of study and was suggested by witnessing a parachute drop made by Captain Baldwin in this city. This is the first side wheeler, as it may be termed, in air navigation. It is practically a case of treading water in the air, except that the treading is suddenly rapid and continuous to cause the machine and its operator to ascend.

In discussing his invention Mr. Shearer stated that the frame work was constructed of bamboo, with cross braces in the lower portion. The wheels are eight foot in diameter, rotate on a large circle by means of a socket wheel and are so arranged that they tip up like the feathering of an oar on its return stroke and then flatten out to get the required lifting power required.

Mr. Shearer is very confident that the filer will not only rise at a rate proportionate to the speed of the engine, but that it will actually remain stationary in mid-air for a long time by simply running the engine at the required speed. His first test was with a young man in the basket who weighed 90 pounds and he only went to the height of about 20 feet. The apparatus weighs about 175 pounds and actual tests show that the contrivance has 35 pounds more lifting power per unit of horse power than has ever been accomplished in aerial work without the use of a gas bag.

An Old-Time Ad.

A New York confectioner who is moving for the fifth time in the 70 years' history of the concern, is sending to his customers a reproduction of an advertisement published in 1813, announcing the first removal of the business. The old-time advertisement is couched in "elegant" language, beginning with the statement that, "The Saloon will be open from six o'clock a. m. until 12 o'clock p. m. and no pains or expense will be spared to accommodate his patrons with as good an article as can be made." His ice cream was to be "made with cream," and, furthermore, "He would solicit the public to call and try his ice cream, which he flatters himself is a superior article. The money will be refunded for any article, furnished which does not correspond with his recommendation."

Kindness That Is Frozen.

The world is full of kindness that never is spoken, and that is not much better than no kindness at all. The fuel in the stove makes the room warm, but there are great piles of fallen trees lying on rocks and on tops of hills where nobody can get them. These do not make anybody warm. You might freeze to death for want of wood in plain sight of these fallen trees, if you had no means of getting the wood home and making a fire of it. Just so in a family. Love is what makes the parents and children, the brothers and sisters happy. But if they take care never to say a word about it, if they keep it a profound secret as if it were a crime, they will not be much happier than if there was not any love among them; the house will seem cool even in summer; and, if you live there, you will envy the dog when anyone calls him "Poor fellow."

SOMERVILLE MAD MAN KILLS FIVE

INSANE HOG BUTCHER TURNS
HIS KNIFE ON HUMAN VICTIMS.

THREE OTHER MEN MAY DIE

Employees of Massachusetts Packing
Plant Have Desperate Battle with Man Who Suddenly Becomes
Crazed in a Slaughter House.

Somerville, Mass., June 7.—At least one and possibly two deaths will be added to the five slain Saturday by John Murphy, who, crazed by his work as a slaughterer of hogs, turned his knife on human victims. Dr. Daniel Hayes is now at the point of death.

John Cheever and Joseph Chicoak, who also were stabbed, are in critical condition and their recovery is considered doubtful.

In padded cell at the Somerville police station, Murphy allowed no one to approach him and after hours of raving he began to pray. He was given a hanging this morning and held for the grand jury.

He Suddenly Goes Mad.

Murphy became suddenly insane at the North Packing Company's plant. He was seized with the mania while he was work in the slaughter house, armed with the big knife which he used in his work, he ran through the factory, hacking at every one within reach. Five of the eight men attacked were almost instantly killed.

Murphy is a pig-killer. The knife which he uses is as keen as a razor and has a blade about 16 inches long. Those near him received no warning of their danger. The first man attacked was Dr. Hayes, a government meat inspector.

Cheever the Next Attacked.

Next, Cheever, a Panderer, was stabbed over the heart. There was no chance to oppose the crazy man, and in the next few minutes five men fell to the floor with stab wounds through the heart or in other vital parts. Another escaped with a bad cut.

Workmen out of Murphy's ranch seized clubs and barrel staves and rushed upon him, but he ran down stairs to the yard. There he was surrounded, beaten down and captured. He is a powerful man, weighing about 200 pounds.

Two of the dead men were negroes and the others foreigners. Murphy is 50 years old and lived with his family in this city.

NEGRO PUGILIST, SERMON THEME

Booker Washington Points to Jack Johnson's Success.

New York, June 7.—Jack Johnson's title to the heavyweight championship of the world was the halo theme in a sermon preached by Booker T. Washington to the Negro Men's Business League of New York. The fighter's name was not mentioned, however.

"In the last analysis," Dr. Washington told his hearers, "success is what counts. You remember," he said, "when a certain member of our race went to Australia to do a job; warnings were sounded that the color line would be drawn. The question was hurled at him: 'Aren't you afraid in that white man's country?'

"Now suppose he had gone to Australia crushed, saying that he was a negro and much oppressed, would he have won? It is a Godsend that he did win. It shows to the negro race what determination will do."

BURGLARS TORTURE WOMEN.

Hold Lighted Candles to Their Feet to Get Money.

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 7.—A lynching is threatened in the event of the capture of five men, all masked, who broke into the home of Mrs. Anna Ashe, aged 90 years, in the outskirts of the mining village, and ransacked the place. With the aged woman were her daughter, Mrs. Mary Ober, 60 years old, and her granddaughter, Miss Minnie Ober, 23 years old.

The men found only $3.50 in the house and, believing there was more, they bound the three women and subjected them to merciless torture. The men tore wire from the pictures hanging on the walls and fastened the three women to chairs. They then bared their feet and held lighted candles to their feet. Practically unconscious the women were otherwise abused.

SIX Lose Their Lives.

New Orleans, June 7.—Four women and two children were drowned last night when the excursion steamer Margaret made a fastening at Mandeville, La., on the north coast of Lake Pontchartrain, 25 miles from New Orleans. The wharf gave way and about 75 people were thrown into the lake. Many heroic rescues were made.

Loved Wife; Shot Husband.

Lapeer, Mich., June 7.—James Dugan, a farmer, was shot through the lung and seriously wounded. Edward Parker is held under arrest to await the outcome of the affair. Parker was recently employed by Dugan and was discharged for an insane infatuation for Mrs. Dugan.

Royal Nose is Sore.

San Sebastian, June 7.—It is stated that King Alfonso recently underwent another slight operation on his nose by a Barcelona specialist, Dr. Moura, which has proved successful.

SHERIFF'S SLAYER LYNCHED.

Fifteen Men Hang Negro Near the Florida Statehouse.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., June 7.—Dangling from a limb of a tree in the county jail yard, and within sight of the dome of the Florida state capitol, the lifeless body of Monk Morris, a negro, met the gaze of the people of this city yesterday morning. He had been condemned to death for the murder of William Langston, late sheriff of this county.

A mob of not more than 15 men, about three o'clock in the morning, dragged Morris from his cell in the jail and strung him up to a tree within the jail inclosure. The mob then emptied a round of cartridges into the lifeless body and rode away un molested. The mob brought the jailor to the door with the result that they had a prisoner, overpowered him and took his keys.

It took twelve innings for the Y. M. C. A. and the Wisconsin Carriage Company to settle their differences at the Fair Grounds, and it was only after a hard struggle that the Carriage Makers were forced to remain at the lower end of the percentage column. Up to the sixth inning, when Owen relieved Birch on the slab for the Y. M. C. A., the game had been sawed to and fro, although the Association was in the lead with the long end of 54-61 score. In the seventh round a bunch of boots and errors on the part of the Association jet in three runs, so that in the ninth the score stood 7 to 5 with the Carriage Makers feeling that they were "it," at least for that name. At this point, with two men on bases and two out, Birch landed on one of V. Pope's slants for a two-base, sending two runners across the plate and tying up the score. It was one, two, three until the last part of the twelfth, when Birch, who had been hitting consistently, beat a bunt in first, stole second and scored on Tippet's single to leftfield. The line-up:

Y. M. C. A.—Hutchinson, c; Beers, ss; Birch, p; Tippet, cf; Murphy, 2b; Owen, 3b; Merrill, lf; Scollard, rf; Homming, 1b.

Wisconsin Carriage Company—C. Pope, c; F. Brown, 3b; W. Folk, rf; H. Smith, cf; J. Gleens, 1b; V. Pope, p; Krueger, 2b; R. Howland, ss; Rooney, lf.

In the third game of the day the Parker Pen Company, using the Gazette team for a pad, scratched up a neat total of sixteen runs, while the "Typos" were able to put just one lone run on the tally sheet, making the score resemble Bryan's famous campaign slogan. No reason can be assigned for the "Typos" dump, except that the trial of sitting for their photograph might have unstrung them. The landslide started in the fifth when the Pinakers took a licking for Schmidt's shots and ran bases almost at will. When the Pinakers were over it was found that they had amassed a total of seven runs which put the game on ice. Another fusillade of hits in the eighth brought in seven more, while in the ninth they were forced to be content with two. W. Hoise brought in the Gazette's lonely tally in the first, saving his team from a coat of calcutite. The line-up:

Parker Pen Company—Dobson, M.; Schuler, 2b; Maltz, rf; Hall, ss; Dobrutz, p; Hall, c; Thorn, cf; Sonnett, lf; Day, 2b.

Gazette—W. Hulse, ss; Berger, 2b; G. Schmid, p; Odell, cf; Vogel, c; O'Hara, 3b; P. Schmidt, 1b; G. Hulse, lf; Pier, rf.

The JANESEVILLE City team with Carroll on the slab completely coated the Beloit Red Sox with a pure white solution of white wash at Yost's park yesterday afternoon. The score was 11 to 0. The Lino City team was unable to solve Carroll's delivery and eleven fanned, while only two were able to get to him for hits. Dobkins was the recyeling end of the battery for the JANESEVILLE team.

At the Fair Grounds yesterday afternoon Fleming's "Keg Rollers" put it over the Harmony team to the tune of 9 to 4. Pier and Fleming performed for the "Rollers," while Bond and Burns were the battery for the Harmony team.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR A WONDERFUL LABORA Japanese Soldier's Religion Written by Carlile Hibbard for the Gazette.

While Mr. Hibbard was in Japan, before he went to the front with the Japanese appeared along the ship's rail. The full light of the moon fell for a moment on a rugged face, then hands met in subdued clapping before the bowed head and the soldier prayed.

A Japanese colonel once said to me, "Though not myself a religious man, I believe that here in the war territory every man worships some divinity." It is true that many love the spiritual meaning in the symbol; it is true that the form of expression varies with the training and history of the individual, but all unite in exalting loyalty and patriotism to a supremacy not unlike that claimed by Christ from those patriots of His kingdom. "If any man come to me and hate not his father, and mother, and wife, and children, and brothers, and sisters, and his own life also, he cannot be

Even more so are the series of short articles he is now writing for this paper of the great needs of systematic work among the Japanese in the Manchurian peninsula. Mr. Hibbard expects to return to his work in the far east in the autumn and hopes to observe this day as a Memorial Day for your honored dead. It is appropriate that you should keep it after the same spirit as is shown in the observance of May 30 by the CIVIL War veterans. The BLACK BAG

By Louis Joseph Vance

Copyright, 1900, by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

Presently he put aside his pipe and stared blankly out at a ceiling landscape, the pleasant, homely, smiling country-side of Kent. A deeper melancholy tinted his mind—Dorothy Calendar was forever lost to him. Presently he toppled, limply over on the cushions and fell fast asleep.

After a long time he seemed to realize rather hazily that the carriage door had been opened to admit somebody. Its smart closing bang shocked him awake. He sat up, blinking in confusion, hardly conscious of more, to begin with, than that the train had paused and was again in full flight. Then, his senses clutching, he became aware that his solitary companion, just entered, was a woman. She was seated across from him, her back to the engine, in an attitude which somehow suggested a highly nonchalant frame of mind. She laughed, and immediately her speaking voice was high and sweet in his hearing.

Beneath his breath the bewildered man said, "The deuce!" and above it, in a stammered tone, "Mrs. Hallam!" She nodded his head not unfriendly fashion, smiling brightly. "Myself, Mr. Kirkwood. Really our predestined paths are badly tangled just now, aren't they? Were you surprised to find me in here with you? Come, now, confess you were!"

He remarked the smooth, girlish freshness of her cheeks, the serape and humor of her mouth, the velvety glow of excitement in her eyes of the clinging sea, and saw as well that she was dressed for traveling, sensibly, but with an air, and had brought a small hand bag with her.

"Surprised and delighted," he replied, recovering, with mien and air so intentional and obvious that the woman laughed aloud.

"I knew you'd be. You see, I had the carriage ahead, the one you didn't take. I was so disappointed when you hung up to the door and away again. You didn't see me hanging half out the window to watch where you went, did you? That's how I discovered that your discourtesy was unintentional, that you hadn't recognized me—by the fact that you took this compartment right behind my own!"

She paused invitingly, but Kirkwood, grown wary, contented himself with picking up his pipe and carefully knocking out the dottle on the window ledge.

"I was glad to see you," she affirmed, "but only partly because you were you, Mr. Kirkwood. The other and major part was because sight of you confirmed my own secret intuition. You see, I'm quite old enough and wise enough to question even my own intuitions. For you are going to Queensborough, aren't you, Mr. Kirkwood?"

"Queensborough?" he echoed blankly, and, in fact, he was at a loss to follow her drift. "No, Mrs. Hallam, I'm not bound there."

Her surprise was apparent. She made no effort to conceal it. "But," she faltered, "if not there—"

"Give you my word, Mrs. Hallam, I have no intention whatever of going to Queensborough," Kirkwood protest ed.

"I don't understand." The nervous drumming of a patent leather covered soles, visible beneath the hem of her dress, alone betrayed a rising tide of impatience. "Then my intuition was at fault?"

"In this instance, if it was at all concerned with my indigence and affairs, you—most decidedly at fault."

"Very well, then! Now, let us see—where are you bound?"

Kirkwood looked out of the window. "I'm convinced it's a rendezvous."

Kirkwood smiled patiently at the landscape.

"Is Dorothy Calendar so very, very beautiful, Mr. Kirkwood?" with a trace of malice.

Ostentatiously Kirkwood read the Southwestern and Chatham framed card of warning, posted just above Mrs. Hallam's head, to all such incurable hounds as are possessed of a desire to travel on the running boards of railway carriages.

"You are going to meet her, aren't you?"

He gracefully concealed a yawn. The woman's plan of attack took another form. "Last night, when you told me your story, I believed you."

He devoted himself to suppressing the temptingly obvious retort and succeeded; but, though he left it unspoken, the humor of it twiched the corners of his mouth, and Mrs. Hallam was observant, so that her next attempt to draw him out was edged with temper.

"I believed you an American, but a gentleman." It appeared that if you ever were the latter you're fallen so low that you willingly cast your lot with thieves!"

Having exhausted his repertory of rudeness, Kirkwood took to twiddling his thumbs.

"I want to ask you if you think it fair to me or my son to leave us in ignorance of the place where you are to meet the thieves who stole our—my son's jewels?"

"Mrs. Hallam," he said soberly, "if I am going to meet Mr. Calendar or Mr. Mulready, I have no assurance of that fact."

There was only the briefest of pauses, during which she analyzed this, then quickly, "But you hope to?" she snapped.

He felt that the only adequate resort to this would be a shrug of his shoulders, doubted his ability to carry one off and again took refuge in silence.

The woman abandoned a second plan of siege with a readiness that did credit to her knowledge of mankind. She thought out the next very carefully before opening with a masked battery. "Mr. Kirkwood, can't we be friends?"

"Nothing could please me more, Mrs. Hallam."

"I'm sorry if I've annoyed you!"

"And I, too, have been rude."

"Last night, when you cut away so suddenly, you prevented my making you a proposal, a sort of business proposition!"

"Yes!"

"To come over to our side!"

"I thought so. That was why I went."

"Yes; I understood. But this morning, when you've had time to think it over—"

"I have no choice in the matter, Mrs. Hallam."

The green eyes darkened ominously. "You mean—I am to understand, then, that you're against us, that you prefer to side with swindlers and scoundrels, all because of it!"

She discovered him eying her with a smile of such inscrutable and sardonic intelligence that the words died on her lips, and she crimsoned tremulously to herself, for he saw it, and the belief he had conceived while attending to her theme of subversion earlier that morning was strengthened to the point of conviction that if anything had been stolen by anybody Mrs. Hallam and her son owned it as little as Calendar.

As for the woman, she felt she had steadily lost rather than gained ground.

"So," she said slowly after a silent time, "you are not for Queensborough?"

Mr. Kirkwood, premier of the commonwealth, has sent a cablegram formally offering to the imperial government a Dreadnought, or a corresponding addition to the navy.

Smith Pardons 25 Convicts.

Atlanta, Ga., June 7.—Gov. Smith pardoned 25 convicts, nearly all of whom were in pitiable health from experiences in the recently abolished convict camps of Georgia.

It follows, then, that—I followed. And in answer to his perturbed glance she added: "Oh, I'll grant that intuition is sometimes a poor guide, but if you meet George Calendar so shall I. Nothing can prevent that. You can't hinder me."

During the brief balance of the journey Mrs. Hallam presumably had food for thought. She frowned, pursed her lips and with one daintily gloved forefinger followed a seam of her tailored skirt, while Kirkwood sat watching and wondering how to rid himself of her if she proved really as troublesome as she threatened to be; also he wondered continually what it was all about. Why did Mrs. Hallam suspect him of designing to meet Calendar at Queensborough? Had she any tangible ground for believing that Calendar could be found in Queensborough? Presumably she had, since she was avowedly in pursuit of that gentleman and, Kirkwood inferred, had booked for Queensborough. Was he, then, running away from Calendar and his

ANOTHER WOMAN CURED

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Gardiner, Maine.—"I have been a great sufferer from organic troubles and a severe female weakness. The doctor said I would have to go to the hospital for an operation, but I could not bear to think of it. I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash—and was entirely cured after three months' use of them."—Mrs. S. A. Williams, R. F. D. No. 14, Box 80, Gardiner, Me.

No woman should submit to a surgical operation, which may mean death, until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made exclusively from roots and herbs, a fair trial. This famous medicine for women has for thirty years proved to be the most valuable tonic and remover of the female organism. Women residing in almost every city and town in the United States bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtue of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It cures female ills, and creates radiant, buoyant female health. If you are ill, for your own sake as well as those you love, give it a trial.

Mr. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to her office for advice. Her advice is free and always helpful.

A breakfast of E-C Corn Flakes, so dainty, appetizing and strengthening, served with good milk or cream and a little fruit, means a satisfied appetite and a grateful stomach and a good day's work.

Remember it's the E-C process that produces the crisp—delicious—E-C Corn Flakes. Watch for the E-C mark on the package.

PLEA BY MRS. TAFT SAVES LIFE OF ALASKA SLAYER

President Commutes the Sentence to Life Imprisonment at the Request of Helpmeet.

Washington, June 7.—Mrs. Taft has saved a man from the gallows. Touched by her plea for mercy, the president has signed an order to the Alaska authorities, giving Michael Porovich a Russian who was sentenced to die for murder at Fairbanks, life imprisonment.

The man was convicted before and sentenced by James Wickersham, then a federal Judge of Alaska, who is now a congressional delegate from that territory. He recommended clemency and Attorney General Wickersham made the same recommendation, but the president was not inclined to interfere until Mrs. Taft urged that he be merciful.

The president considers all pardon or commutation cases in his study in the White House. It is one of the classes of business that he does not take up in his office. There is so much interruption at the executive office that it is impossible for the president to study anything carefully there.

As long as he is in his office there is always some call with business so urgent that he must see Mr. Taft. Therefore, the new president who will pass on nothing without going over all the facts, quits the executive office early in the afternoon and goes to his working room in the White House proper.

It was for this reason that Mrs. Taft, who takes great interest in all that her husband does, became acquainted with the Porovich case.

MEET TO DISCUSS CRIME.

Experts Attend National Conference of Criminologists in Chicago.

Chicago, June 7.—Leaders in the war on crime from all parts of the country have been attracted to this city by the national conference on criminal law and criminology which opened to-day in the Northwestern University School of Law. The meeting is in a way a celebration of the school's fiftieth anniversary, and scores of lawyers, penologists, prosecuting officers, physicians, surgeons and others were invited to take part in the discussions. There will be no set speeches. The conference closes tomorrow evening with a dinner at the University club.

The wide range of the conference is shown by the topics that are being discussed. Some of them are:

The unnecessary multiplication of criminal laws as a cause of disrepect of, and disregard for, the law.

Needed reforms in the use of medical expert testimony, and the feasibility of establishing state commissions of specialists for expert testimony.

The problem of the jury system.

The problem of the simplification of judicial procedure by eliminating certain of the cumbersome and antiquated forms of the common law.

Limitations and restrictions on the right of appeal. To what extent should reversals for errors be permitted?

Measures for the supervision of aspects, especially in such matters as the "Black Hand" crimes.

WATERWAYS MEN IN SESSION.

Convention of National Association Held in Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, June 7.—The twenty-ninth annual convention of the American Waterworks association opened today in the Plankinton hotel. Active and associate members from a great many cities are present, and many of them are accompanied by their wives and other guests. The sessions will continue for six days, and various excursions and other entertainments have been arranged to fill in the time between the business meetings.

After the committee had met to-day the formal opening session was held, and Mayor David S. Rose and other prominent Milwaukeeans cordially welcomed the delegates to the city. President D. W. French of Weehawken, N. J., responded and then delivered his annual address. At the sessions of the next five days many technical papers will be presented, some of them being illustrated by lantern slides.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

FOR or five thousand of years ago—the exact date is not certain, but the incident he—five told Adam that she had given up a career to marry him.

The precedent they set has been followed by some millions of her daughters since.

I know a woman who was a more or less intimate friend of Viola Allen's when she was a girl and who feels that she might have shared Viola Allen's career with her. And everyone that she knows, knows that she knew Viola Allen and that she might have shared that career.

She says this in this way: "I know Viola Allen very well. Her father wanted to train me for the stage but my father refused to hear of it."

The tones of regret in her voice are really heartbreaking. It is as if she were ringing the death knell of her career every time she says it. You would believe her the most unhappy woman alive, as it is a matter of fact when she isn't thinking about that she is very happy.

She isn't an unusual type. You probably know at least one actress, one authoress, one prima donna and one artist among your women friends who only escaped enduring fame by having her ambitions cut off in youth either by fate or marriage, which is fate in another guise.

Their grief about their ruined careers may seem harmless self delusion, but anything that causes a woman to indulge in vain regrets cannot be called exactly harmless.

A woman's career in what she is doing—not what she could have done. And she is a success or failure in life according to whether she does what she is doing well or ill.

The career that most of us women are following even in the 20th century is that of homemaking. At times it may seem lacking in interest and even in results. But if that is so, it is usually our fault.

Incidentally it may be remarked that homemaking as a career is not without honor in the eyes of women who have achieved success in what most women would call real careers. Witness Margaret Huntington, who left the stage where she had the plaudits of the masses because she wanted a home and an audience of one, and more recently Lillian Nordica, who says that when her approaching marriage takes place her voice will then be used for the entertainment of her home.

The actresses, prima donnas, artists and authoress that never were, grove because they believe that they have talents that are lost to the world and that the world would have enjoyed and be better for them.

If they still have the talents there are plenty of people to enjoy them and be better for them.

And not so very far off, either.

THE HUMBLE PRUNE.

Prunes, like the apple and the peach, are not appreciated in accordance with their high food value.

Like the goober, the prune is "humble," associated with the name of cheap boarding house, but repeated experiments, in comparison with figs, dates and other sugar fruits, have shown the prune to be the best of all foods of this class; not only because it yields an easily digested supply of carbohydrate or heat giving food, but because it contains a small percentage of acid (the Santa Clara much less than the Washington prune), which is natural antiseptic and helps to auto-intoxication; and prunes have a natural laxative effect.

Prunes are good only during winter and figs are liable to be spoiled at any season, but dried prunes, unless they have been much exposed during hot weather, are nearly always safe without boiling. Thoroughly washed and soaked for 12 hours, the Santa Clara prune is ready to eat without sugar. It alone, eaten slowly, forms a substantial though light meal, one that will not interfere with sleep, even of the most delicate.

Prunes are good only during winter and figs are liable to be spoiled at any season, but dried prunes, unless they have been much exposed during hot weather, are nearly always safe without boiling. Thoroughly washed and soaked for 12 hours, the Santa Clara prune is ready to eat without sugar. It alone, eaten slowly, forms a substantial though light meal, one that will not interfere with sleep, even of the most delicate.
